Joke of the Month

What falls in the winter but never gets hurt?

Answer:
Snow!

Please Note:

Sundre Library will be closed Nov. 11 + 12 in observance of Remembrance Day Weekend.

Exciting New Kids' Space!

Have you been into our children's room lately? If so, you have seen the beautiful NEW shelving we have to house our children's picture books, book kits, board books, and children's grab bags. This shelving was purchased through a generous grant from EQUUS and the Friends of the Library Society.

Our new shelving allows us adequate space to shelve our current collection and gives us lots of room to grow. With the extra space we are able to spread out our collection of books, making it easier for children to browse the collection to see what interests them.

The bins on top of the shelves hold face displayed, themed and curated collections to showcase our books in a way that makes the book covers more visible and more attractive to young and reluctant readers. Kids are highly visual and showing them the book covers makes them more likely to pick up a book and look through it.

Reading benefits children in so many ways. It can improve their listening skills, language and problem solving skills, expands their vocabulary, and increases their attention span. Books can help parents teach their children life lessons and can feed their child's creativity and vivid imaginations! So come on in and find the next book adventure for you and your little ones!

Meet Our New Programmer!

We're delighted to have recently welcomed Shari Peyerl to our library team as our new programmer and are thrilled to tell you a little bit about her!

Shari comes to us with a captivating and exciting background as an archaeologist, oral historian, archivist, and author (check out her new book Alberta's Cornerstone: Archaeological Adventures in Glenbow Ranch Provincial Park). She currently writes a monthly column for the Bergen News, a monthly history column for the Glenbow Ranch Provincial Park Foundation, and now our Not Just Books monthly newsletter!

When not giving tours and presentations about Glenbow Ranch's history and archaeology, Shari can be found gardening, antiquing (especially books/postcards/paperweights and letter-openers), creating things with paper and textiles, and reading her way through a large stack of books patiently waiting to be read.

Say hello to Shari the next time you're in, and ask her what influenced her career choice (hint: it involves National Geographic treasure-hunting articles and Nancy Drew mysteries).

SILENT AUCTION RETURNS

This November the SILENT AUCTION will return, offering community residents a great opportunity to do some holiday shopping while supporting their local library.

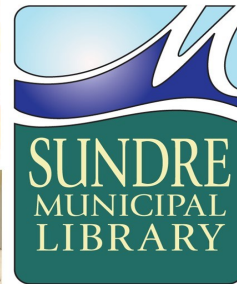

Donations can be dropped off during library hours now through November 10th with bidding opening Tuesday, November 15th at 9:00 am.

Thank you for your support!
